LAW LIBRARY
ARIZONA ATTORNEY GENERAL

Attention: Mr. G.M. Fry, Clerk

Gentlemen:

We have your letter of July 20, wherein you ask if the governing body of an incorporated town, to wit Buckeye, Arizona, would be within its powers in enacting an ordinance requiring bars disposing of spiritous liquors to close on Sundays,

It is our opinion that the Arizona State Liquor Control Act specifically gives the power to incorporated cities and towns within the State to pass ordinances requiring bars within the town's territorial limits to close on Sundays.

Therefore we believe that if an ordinance is drawn so as not to conflict with other statutory and constitutional provisions, such an ordinance cannot be declared invalid for lack of authority to legislate on the subject of controlling the sale of liquors.

Yours very truly,

JOE CONWAY
Attorney General
